

THE WORLD'S CIRCULATION YESTERDAY, 658,162.

LAST EDITION M'KANE'S FIFTH DAY.

Unabated Interest in the Trial of Gravesend's Boss.

Lawyer Mayer Tells of the Czar's Diplomatic Actions.

Gaynor Warned by the "Hard Man to Fight."

The fifth day of the trial of John Y. McKane for conspiracy with the Election Inspectors of Gravesend opened this morning in the Brooklyn Court of Oyer and Terminer, with the examination of witnesses for the prosecution well under way.

The foundation for proving the charges against the Boss of Coney Island was laid yesterday afternoon by the putting in evidence of many public documents and records going to show that his authority in the town of Gravesend was supreme and unquestioned.

The cross-examination of James M. Masterson, one of Justice Gaynor's young men, who first went down to Gravesend with Arthur J. Maxfield on Oct. 27 to get copies of the registration lists, was continued this morning by Lawyer Roderick.

Chief McKane sat in the center of the court-room beside Lawyer Foster L. Beckus, of his counsel. He brought with him a big writing pad, and took copious notes of all the testimony given. He was the chief object of interest to the attentive throng which surrounded him, and who watched every movement and expression with eager curiosity.

Justice Bartlett had taken his seat on the bench promptly at 9 o'clock, and at that hour the throng of faithful Gravesenders, who have attended the proceedings ever since the beginning in full force, had filled up the little balcony in the rear of the court-room, prepared for another day's siege.

Chief McKane sat in the center of the court-room beside Lawyer Foster L. Beckus, of his counsel. He brought with him a big writing pad, and took copious notes of all the testimony given. He was the chief object of interest to the attentive throng which surrounded him, and who watched every movement and expression with eager curiosity.

Justice Bartlett had taken his seat on the bench promptly at 9 o'clock, and at that hour the throng of faithful Gravesenders, who have attended the proceedings ever since the beginning in full force, had filled up the little balcony in the rear of the court-room, prepared for another day's siege.

Chief McKane sat in the center of the court-room beside Lawyer Foster L. Beckus, of his counsel. He brought with him a big writing pad, and took copious notes of all the testimony given. He was the chief object of interest to the attentive throng which surrounded him, and who watched every movement and expression with eager curiosity.

Justice Bartlett had taken his seat on the bench promptly at 9 o'clock, and at that hour the throng of faithful Gravesenders, who have attended the proceedings ever since the beginning in full force, had filled up the little balcony in the rear of the court-room, prepared for another day's siege.

Chief McKane sat in the center of the court-room beside Lawyer Foster L. Beckus, of his counsel. He brought with him a big writing pad, and took copious notes of all the testimony given. He was the chief object of interest to the attentive throng which surrounded him, and who watched every movement and expression with eager curiosity.

Justice Bartlett had taken his seat on the bench promptly at 9 o'clock, and at that hour the throng of faithful Gravesenders, who have attended the proceedings ever since the beginning in full force, had filled up the little balcony in the rear of the court-room, prepared for another day's siege.

Chief McKane sat in the center of the court-room beside Lawyer Foster L. Beckus, of his counsel. He brought with him a big writing pad, and took copious notes of all the testimony given. He was the chief object of interest to the attentive throng which surrounded him, and who watched every movement and expression with eager curiosity.

Justice Bartlett had taken his seat on the bench promptly at 9 o'clock, and at that hour the throng of faithful Gravesenders, who have attended the proceedings ever since the beginning in full force, had filled up the little balcony in the rear of the court-room, prepared for another day's siege.

Chief McKane sat in the center of the court-room beside Lawyer Foster L. Beckus, of his counsel. He brought with him a big writing pad, and took copious notes of all the testimony given. He was the chief object of interest to the attentive throng which surrounded him, and who watched every movement and expression with eager curiosity.

Justice Bartlett had taken his seat on the bench promptly at 9 o'clock, and at that hour the throng of faithful Gravesenders, who have attended the proceedings ever since the beginning in full force, had filled up the little balcony in the rear of the court-room, prepared for another day's siege.

Chief McKane sat in the center of the court-room beside Lawyer Foster L. Beckus, of his counsel. He brought with him a big writing pad, and took copious notes of all the testimony given. He was the chief object of interest to the attentive throng which surrounded him, and who watched every movement and expression with eager curiosity.

Justice Bartlett had taken his seat on the bench promptly at 9 o'clock, and at that hour the throng of faithful Gravesenders, who have attended the proceedings ever since the beginning in full force, had filled up the little balcony in the rear of the court-room, prepared for another day's siege.

GILROY OBJECTS TO BONDS.

That's Why He Opposes Several New York City Bills.

Has Written to Several Senators and Assemblymen on the Subject.

Mayor Gilroy has written several letters to Senators and Assemblymen in Albany, stating his objections to certain bills introduced by them affecting New York City.

"Most of these bills," said he, "authorize the issue of more bonds. The city has bonds enough authorized and outstanding at present, and I favor bonds for only such improvements as are absolutely necessary."

"For that reason I am opposed to the New York City bill for the Eleventh District Civil Court and Seventh District Police Court which was to be erected in the Eleventh Assembly District. And, besides, we have court-houses enough."

"I didn't know Mr. Gaynor wanted a copy," said McKane. "I gave the order not to let the lists be seen, but Mr. Gaynor was welcome to a copy if he wanted one. I will tell Johnny Murphy to telephone down to Gravesend and allow you to make a copy."

"Mr. McKane went to his office and I went to mine, said the witness. After lunch I went to Mr. McKane's office and saw John W. Murphy."

Mr. Mayer explained that he had always done business with McKane through Murphy, who was chairman of the election inspectors of the First District.

"I asked Murphy if Mr. McKane had not given him an order to let me copy the Gravesend registration lists, and he said he had not."

"Didn't he tell you to telephone down to Gravesend?" I asked.

"No," answered Murphy.

"I went back to my office," said Mr. Mayer.

Lawyer Mayer gives interesting testimony.

Mayer, after asking Murphy to call Mr. McKane's attention to his promise, came to my office and said, "You are mistaken about what Mr. McKane said. He didn't say he would let you copy the lists."

"Mr. Gaynor came out of his private office at that point to allow Mr. McKane to see the lists," said Mr. Mayer.

"What do you mean by that? One has a right to copy these lists," said Mr. McKane.

"Murphy replied: 'We give you a list if you want one of your list,' replied Mr. Gaynor. 'I want a list that can be seen by a court. McKane gives an order or not.'"

"Murphy replied: 'We can't let strangers copy those lists because we don't know whether they may be friends or enemies.'"

Half an hour afterwards, the witness stated, some one called up on the telephone and asked Mr. McKane to take the witness stand. He said he had had a conversation with McKane over the telephone.

Lawyer Roderick objected very strongly to this testimony on the ground that the witness had never spoken with McKane and did not recognize his voice.

Justice Bartlett asked Mr. McKane if he recognized the voice of the witness.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

"He told me so, sir," replied Mr. McKane.

PRINCE AND KAISER.

They Met To-Day and the Reconciliation Is Complete.

With the Empress They Sit Down to a Luncheon Spread for Three.

Oration to the Ex-Chancellor All Along the Way to the Castle.

BERLIN, Jan. 26.—The meeting of Prince Bismarck and the Emperor William has occurred, and the reconciliation is complete.

The Prince arrived at the Castle shortly after 1 o'clock to-day, and the Emperor received him with the greatest distinction, surrounded by a brilliant staff of officers of the highest rank.

It was evident that the Prince was much touched at the heartiness of the Emperor's manner. The three eldest sons of Emperor William were present at the reception.

At 1.45 P. M., luncheon was served in the Emperor's private rooms, where only three covers were laid—one for the Emperor, one for the Empress and one for Prince Bismarck.

Prince Bismarck's arrival at the Castle was followed by an enthusiastic succession of demonstrations upon the part of the people. Thousands upon thousands packed the square in front of the Castle, singing the national anthems, "Wacht am Rhein" and "Deutschland Ueber Alles."

The Emperor and Empress, the young Princes and Prince Bismarck repeatedly appeared at a window, bowing in response to these manifestations, which continued throughout the afternoon.

At 3 o'clock Chancellor von Caprivi, followed by all the Secretaries of State, called at the castle and left their cards for Prince Bismarck.

Promptly at 1 o'clock the train bearing Prince Bismarck and his party from Friedrichsruhe to Berlin entered Lehrte Railroad station, and as it slowed up at the platform and Prince Bismarck was seen at the window of his carriage, there came an outburst of applause which, being taken up by the crowds outside the railroad station, seemed to be carried throughout all Berlin.

Prince Henry extended a most cordial greeting to Prince Bismarck, and the latter shook hands with many of the distinguished officers present, several of whom, especially the veterans, were affected considerably at this meeting.

After a short interval, during which a number of most complimentary little speeches were made, Prince Bismarck was escorted by Prince Henry to one of the Imperial carriages for the ride to the castle.

All Friedrichsruhe turned out, and six beautiful young girls, dressed entirely in white, presented the Prince with a handsome laurel wreath inscribed: "A Happy Journey."

These girls also carried large baskets of flowers and preceded Bismarck's carriage to the castle, where they were met by the Emperor and Empress.

Prince Bismarck wore the uniform of the Magdeburg or Yellow Hussars, the corps he loved so well.

His carriage was a heavy four-wheeled one, and upon his head was the traditional German army officer's cap.

There is no doubt that Prince Bismarck feels pleasure at the reconciliation, and that it has greatly improved his health.

Since Tuesday last Prince Bismarck has seemed to be a changed man, and has been laughing and joking in his old manner. He also has been able to take long walks in the grounds of the castle, and has personally answered a number of the very large number of telegrams of congratulation.

There was a change in the eyes of many as the train drew out of the station this morning amid cries for a prosperous journey and for the welfare of the Fatherland.

Upon entering the railroad carriage Prince Bismarck stood at the window, waving his hand to the throngs of people who lined the route.

The train, engine and depot were decked with flowers and bunting, and every station along the route to Berlin was decorated and crowded with people, who cheered the Prince on his way to the capital.

In Berlin the streets became filled with people in holiday attire at an early hour.

The Emperor intended to welcome Prince Bismarck in person at the railroad station, but as the latter was obliged to send his regrets to the Prince, he was obliged to meet the King of Saxony at the Anhalt Railroad Station.

Large stands, handsomely decorated, were erected at various points along the line in Berlin from which a good view of the Emperor could be obtained.

A life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

While the crowds on Unter den Linden were awaiting the arrival of Prince Bismarck, they suddenly saw Emperor William, attended by a single aide, and a life-size wax figure of Prince Bismarck was placed in front of the Arcade called Die Passage.

ON THE ROCKY ROAD TO THE SUPREME COURT.

He is a WHEELER, but has he got a SAFETY?

CHARLES COGHAN'S PERIL.

He Hiccoughed for Nearly Forty-Two Hours.

The Actor Is Still Ill at the Colonnade Hotel.

Charles Coghlan, the well-known actor, is ill at the Colonnade Hotel. While he is now out of danger, his life was for a time despaired of.

Mr. Coghlan finished his engagement with Rose Coghlan at the Fifth Avenue Theatre last Saturday night. Monday night he sat with his last wife, Katherine Beveridge, in a box at the theatre, and in some manner contracted cold. Following his performance he took supper at Delmonico's, and partook of something that did not agree with him.

Early Tuesday he was seized with a fit of hiccoughing. His wife endeavored to subdue the attack with the ordinary remedies, but without effect. The hiccoughing continued, and the corner drug store was visited. Remedies obtained from the Hoffman House, were tried, and messengers were sent to tell Rose Coghlan that her brother might die before morning.

Dr. Peas labored with his patient unavailingly. Liquid nourishment was given Mr. Coghlan, as nothing of a substantial character could be obtained.

The crisis came on Wednesday, when the hiccoughing ceased after a duration of nearly two hours. Mr. Coghlan has not been able to leave the hotel since.

At the Fifth Avenue Theatre today John L. Sullivan was engaged to appear. He was stated that he understood Mr. Coghlan had been a very sick man, but was now better.

It was stated at the Colonnade Hotel that Mr. Coghlan was mending rapidly, and would be about in a few days. The New York Park Commissioners are waiting for him in addition to his hiccoughing experience.

The complaint this morning was Jacques Pachetau, a wine dealer, of 201 Third avenue.

During the latter part of November Pachetau was asked to cash a check for Francis L. Martin, who figured as the murderer of the American Investment Company, which, Lawyer Westmeyer says, has much of a fiction as the Pontiac Bank. The check was certified by Heine, the lawyer said.

Pachetau cashed $200 of the check, which called for $200, as it was all he had in the store at the time.

While trying to get the remaining $200 he was informed by A. Hensel, cashier of Brewer's so-called State Bank, of Barton, Vt., that there was no money in the investment Company's treasury.

This company was supposed to be the New York correspondent of the Barton Bank.

Justice Wells did not issue the warrant, and told the complainant to go to Police Headquarters.

State Island Chicken Thieves. CROFTON, S. I., Jan. 26.—Thieves last night broke into the henhouse of Charles Metcalf and stole thirty-four chickens. It is believed that there is an organized gang, which has been making raids on the hen houses of farmers in various parts of the island. Several chicken thieves were arrested a few weeks ago and are now locked up in the County Jail. Police Commissioner is waiting for the action of the Grand Jury.

Park Improvement Bill Amended in the State Senate. (By Associated Press.) ALBANY, Jan. 26.—In the Senate this morning the bill appropriating $1,000,000 from New York City's treasury for park improvements was amended so as to include the Brookline High School bill as well as the bill for the improvement of the Hudson River. The bill was passed by a vote of 21 to 1.

Police-Shop Dealers Arraigned. Detectives Taylor and Lang and Policemen Cohen and Schindler, of Capt. Cronk's command, arraigned four petty shop dealers before Judge Hogan, in the Essex Market Police Court, to-day. They were Julius Siegelman, of 130 Second street; Vincent Leon, of 4 East Eleventh street, and David Lager and Edward Garrett, of 337 East Tenth street. Justice Hogan fined the men in default of $200 each for trial at General Sessions.

Accused by Wife and Brother. Otto Weber, nineteen years old, of 240 East One Hundred and Ninth street, in Harlem Court, to-day morning, charged his brother Albert, twenty-four years old, with attempting to shoot him. Albert was also charged with non-support by his wife. He was held for a further examination.

Introduced Police on Staten Island. STAPLETON, S. I., Jan. 26.—Thomas Dempsey was arrested this morning charged with dealing in policy lists. When locked up at Police Headquarters, he was trying to earn an honest living. He was held for a further examination.

NO MYSTERY IN HER DEATH. Nineteen-Year-Old Freda Burger Found Dead in Bed. (By Associated Press.) BARCELONA, Jan. 26.—Morrell, the assassin of the Civil Governor, repudiated any intention to commit murder, but it is generally believed that his act was out of revenge for the part which he played in the execution of the young woman. The young woman was apparently in perfect health last evening. She was found dead in bed at 6 o'clock this morning.

Dr. O'Hare, of 354 East Seventy-ninth street, who had been attending another member of the family and had seen Freda every day for some time, was unable to decide as to the cause of death, and referred the case to the Coroner.

Coroner's physician viewed the body this afternoon, and concluded that Miss Burger died from heart failure. A burial permit was granted.

Revenge for Anarchist Prosecution. BARCELONA, Jan. 26.—Morrell, the assassin of the Civil Governor, repudiated any intention to commit murder, but it is generally believed that his act was out of revenge for the part which he played in the execution of the young woman. The young woman was apparently in perfect health last evening. She was found dead in bed at 6 o'clock this morning.

Dr. O'Hare, of 354 East Seventy-ninth street, who had been attending another member of the family and had seen Freda every day for some time, was unable to decide as to the cause of death, and referred the case to the Coroner.

Coroner's physician viewed the body this afternoon, and concluded that Miss Burger died from heart failure. A burial permit was granted.

Revenge for Anarchist Prosecution. BARCELONA, Jan. 26.—Morrell, the assassin of the Civil Governor, repudiated any intention to commit murder, but it is generally believed that his act was out of revenge for the part which he played in the execution of the young woman. The young woman was apparently in perfect health last evening. She was found dead in bed at 6 o'clock this morning.

Dr. O'Hare, of 354 East Seventy-ninth street, who had been attending another member of the family and had seen Freda every day for some time, was unable to decide as to the cause of death, and referred the case to the Coroner.

Coroner's physician viewed the body this afternoon, and concluded that Miss Burger died from heart failure. A burial permit was granted.

Revenge for Anarchist Prosecution. BARCELONA, Jan. 26.—Morrell, the assassin of the Civil Governor, repudiated any intention to commit murder, but it is generally believed that his act was out of revenge for the part which he played in the execution of the young woman. The young woman was apparently in perfect health last evening. She was found dead in bed at 6 o'clock this morning.

Dr. O'Hare, of 354 East Seventy-ninth street, who had been attending another member of the family and had seen Freda every day for some time, was unable to decide as to the cause of death, and referred the case to the Coroner.

Coroner's physician viewed the body this afternoon, and concluded that Miss Burger died from heart failure. A burial permit was granted.

Revenge for Anarchist Prosecution. BARCELONA, Jan. 26.—Morrell, the assassin of the Civil Governor, repudiated any intention to commit murder, but it is generally believed that his act was out of revenge for the part which he played in the execution of the young woman. The young woman was apparently in perfect health last evening. She was found dead in bed at 6 o'clock this morning.

Dr. O'Hare, of 354 East Seventy-ninth street, who had been attending another member of the family and had seen Freda every day for some time, was unable to decide as to the cause of death, and referred the case to the Coroner.

Coroner's physician viewed the body this afternoon, and concluded that Miss Burger died from heart failure. A burial permit was granted.

Revenge for Anarchist Prosecution. BARCELONA, Jan. 26.—Morrell, the assassin of the Civil Governor, repudiated any intention to commit murder, but it is generally believed that his act was out of revenge for the part which he played in the execution of the young woman. The young woman was apparently in perfect health last evening. She was found dead in bed at 6 o'clock this morning.

Dr. O'Hare, of 354 East Seventy-ninth street, who had been attending another member of the family and had seen Freda every day for some time, was unable to decide as to the cause of death, and referred the case to the Coroner.

Coroner's physician viewed the body this afternoon, and concluded that Miss Burger died from heart failure. A burial permit was granted.

Revenge for Anarchist Prosecution. BARCELONA, Jan. 26.—Morrell, the assassin of the Civil Governor, repudiated any intention to commit murder, but it is generally believed that his act was out of revenge for the part which he played in the execution of the young woman. The young woman was apparently in perfect health last evening. She was found dead in bed at 6 o'clock this morning.

Dr. O'Hare, of 354 East Seventy-ninth street, who had been attending another member of the family and had seen Freda every day for some time, was unable to decide as to the cause of death, and referred the case to the Coroner.

Coroner's physician viewed the body this afternoon, and concluded that Miss Burger died from heart failure. A burial permit was granted.

Revenge for Anarchist Prosecution. BARCELONA, Jan. 26.—Morrell, the assassin of the Civil Governor, repudiated any intention to commit murder, but it is generally believed that his act was out of revenge for the part which he played in the execution of the young woman. The young woman was apparently in perfect health last evening. She was found dead in bed at 6 o'clock this morning.

Dr. O'Hare, of 354 East Seventy-ninth street, who had been attending another member of the family and had seen Freda every day for some time, was unable to decide as to the cause of death, and referred the case to the Coroner.

Coroner's physician viewed the body this afternoon, and concluded that Miss Burger died from heart failure. A burial permit was granted.

Revenge for Anarchist Prosecution. BARCELONA, Jan. 26.—Morrell, the assassin of the Civil Governor, repudiated any intention to commit murder, but it is generally believed that his act was out of revenge for the part which he played in the execution of the young woman. The young woman was apparently in perfect health last evening. She was found dead in bed at 6 o'clock this morning.